Paris, 05 April 2016 – Anevia has announced a partnership with Canal+ Group to offer a catchup service for hospitality and healthcare markets. Sold by CANAL PRO and offered in a variety of packages, TV programmes can be selected à la carte to match specific businesses and clients. This partnership will allow existing clients and all new hotels and facilities to include a replay option in their subscription for all channels in the Canal+ package they have selected.

As part of this solution, Canal+ will install the new Flamingo model, which will source, store, protect and distribute satellite content in each hotel or facility's IP and/or Coax network along with a user interface (available at first from the Hoist Group), in order to recreate the full 'Canal+ experience'.

“We have worked with Anevia for many years now, and their technological expertise is vitally important for us”, said Philippe Rivas, Head of Technical Distribution at Canal+. “Flamingo was an obvious choice because it brings together all of this expertise, especially with regard to satellite reception, content protection and the deployment of non-linear services.”

“We are very pleased that Anevia has been chosen to support Canal+ Group in launching its first replay service for the professional market,” added Laurent Lafarge, President and CEO of Anevia. “This new partnership with Canal+ Group opens up promising possibilities for Flamingo, not only as part of this partnership but also with international broadcasters who want to expand their professional product ranges.”
