

Anevia Selected as Preferred Vendor for InterTouch IPTV Solutions in Europe, the Middle East, Africa and India

Anevia, a leading provider of OTT and IPTV software solutions, has extended its successful technology partnership agreement with InterTouch, the leading international provider of premier integrated technology solutions and managed services for the global hospitality industry, to provide support for the company's growth plans that include new target markets in Europe and India.

InterTouch delivers a full suite of highly customisable technology solutions and managed services from its network of international offices, including wired and wireless broadband connectivity, in-room entertainment and managed cloud-based network solutions that support data, voice, video and mobility for the hospitality sector including hotels and hospitals.

Anevia becomes InterTouch's preferred vendor for its multimedia IPTV solutions in new European markets, as well as the Middle East, Africa and India, building on its success working with InterTouch in the Middle East and Africa where they have established a large installed base of customers using Anevia's Flamingo head-end technology.

Flamingo provides the platform for the delivery of customisable in-room multimedia entertainment services for hotel guests and hospital patients. With advanced OTT and IPTV functionality, Flamingo enables high-quality, live and on-demand multiscreen TV services over any network. The software-based platform securely delivers TV and radio content captured from digital satellite, cable, terrestrial, HDMI, IP or web sources, to set-top boxes, connected TVs, PCs, tablets and smartphones over an IP-based, coaxial or wireless network.

Michael Vargosko, InterTouch's Managing Director, EMEA, India and Caribbean & Latin America, commented "We chose Anevia after looking at several alternative vendors but our experience of working with the Anevia team for over seven years made it an easy decision in the end. Anevia's advanced technology and world-class support services has proved to be a successful formula for us in our other territories, so it was logical to stay with a winning partnership to support our growth plans."

Commenting for Anevia, Grégory Samson, VP Sales Worldwide, said, "We are naturally delighted that InterTouch has decided to extend our relationship as a key partner to support their next phase of business development. InterTouch are world leaders in delivering advanced technology for the hospitality sector, and we have had extensive experience working together in this market. We are looking forward to helping InterTouch to achieve the same level of success in Europe and India."

ENDS.
